Fall/Winter 2021

"Our current reality isn't dissipating, it's only evolving." – Chris Leba

Introducing "COVID GRUNGE," the elevated at-home uniform for FW21. The collection represents the aforementioned edge of a lockdown wardrobe, done in familiar R13 fashion and injected with the spirit of our Girl Gang of insurgents.

This season, authority was returned to the women who double as both model and muse as Fernanda, Olivia, Vanessa, Madeline, and Alexis styled the collection in their own way, on their own terms. Shot on the streets of Soho, a nod to reclaiming the places we've inhabited for so long, and the places we will undoubtedly return to with renewed spirit when the time is right. In the interim, the FW21 collection serves the intuitive approach to dressing in the present, all while drawing inspiration from the non-conformist attitude of grunge.

The FW21 collection revisits leisurely silhouettes fit for the times and balances them with newfound grit. Flannel continues to evolve, reimagined this season in long plaid skirts paired back to double laced up sneakers - a key ingredient in the COVID GRUNGE formula. Faux fur outerwear lends texture and personality to its cozier counterparts, like cashmere, cotton, and double layered knits in a variety of prints and bodies. This season, off-kilter pairings become effortlessly cool, further demonstrating our zealous pursuit of independence.
